Resumen. Elvio Romero is the most internationally known paraguayan poet, who was in exile in Argentina for 40 years, the author of several books on social issues. Special attention should be given to his interest in politics of Paraguay during the dictatorship of Stroessner (1954–1989) and his own spirit of rebellion of Rafael Barrett and also Spanish Miguel Hernandez. We investigate for how much he comes to Barrett's anarchism and how much he realizes requirements of complaint realism.
